About Reddy-Care:

Reddy-Care Physical Therapy is a physical therapist owned facility, conveniently located in Great Neck, New York. Because of this, it serves a vast number of communities, families, and businesses.

As a staple in our community, Reddy-Care Physical Therapy takes great pride in providing effective, result- oriented physical therapy services to our clients. As the service industry dictates, we have adopted an individualized approach to therapy gaining mention among our peers. Comfortable treatment environment, inquisitive staff members, effective communication with physicians, team-oriented, and result-driven therapists all serve as cornerstones to our health conscious therapeutic environment.

By offering a variety of specialized treatment options for various populations, Reddy-Care Physical Therapy has the ability to successfully treat many physical therapy-related conditions. All of our therapists specialize in manual therapy (hands-on), blending exercise strategies that address a spectrum from geriatrics to top athletes. Our goal is to give our patients measurable results, which are proven in an environment that permits comfort and change. We also aim for rapid results, health care promotion, and an overall target to achieve our patient's goals-no matter how big or small.
